

Calling all Teacher-Writers and other Curious Creatives

Join us for 5 Saturdays as we write, share, reflect, read, and revise.

This workshop offers rich opportunities for teachers at all grade levels and any writing experience level to explore a range of writing genres and practical, classroom-tested writing strategies. The workshop fosters a warm and encouraging community of writers where participants read inspiring models, collaborate in small groups and collect ideas and materials for teaching. This Spring we'll feature strategies for information and argument writing, reflected in the Common Core Standards. This class sits solidly on the Bay Area Writing Project's belief that teachers become better teachers of writing by writing themselves. Participants contribute to an in-class anthology.

Become a better writer and a better teacher of writing.

Both classes facilitated by BAWP TC Meredith Pike-Baky and held at:
Redwood High School in Larkspur.

Questions?
bawp@berkeley.edu
510-642-0971

Registration Materials online:
www.bayareawritingproject.org

March 14, 21, 28, April 11, 18
9:00am - 12:00pm
$250

Berkeley Graduate School of Education
UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA