

WEEKEND WORKSHOPS

April 13, 2019

Voice, Identity, Access and Equity

Participation includes your choice of 1 workshop per session.
All workshops are led by BAWP Teacher Consultants.

8:45 am: Sign-ins

9:00 am - 10:30 am: Session 1

Moving ELL Students from Speaking to Writing

Presenter: Viet-Ly Gonzalez

Spoken language and written language can be better understood as a continuum rather than as two discrete forms of language. This workshop will explore ways to plan lesson activities that move students from the kind of language that occurs in face-to-face context toward the more academic written language of schooling. We will discuss the critical role that talk plays in developing English Language Learners' language proficiency. This workshop is suited for all grade levels.

10:45 am - 12:15 pm: Session 2

Fostering Student Voice through Oral Storytelling

Presenter: Micaela Morse

Young children and English language learners need regular opportunities to engage in authentic learning experiences through which they build conceptual understanding, as well as develop important language skills. In addition, they need regular opportunities to tell stories about their own lives and experiences orally, through drawings, and through writing. In this workshop, engage in an oral storytelling protocol that can be used with young children and language learners.

Engaging Argument

Presenter: Anjali Kamat

Providing students with opportunities for structured talk can enhance the quality of their writing by bringing out student voice and adding depth to content knowledge. In this workshop, teachers will engage in discussion, dialogue, and debate as tools to prepare for writing and as strategies to engage emerging readers. Teachers will also consider how the role of an authentic audience can make writing more meaningful. This workshop is most suited for secondary teachers.

I, Too, Am America – Shared Identity as Catalyst for Social Justice Activism

Presenters: Jose Manuel Martinez

From the very beginning of the formation of this country, our leaders have consistently warned that strength can only be found in unity. We will engage in writing exercises, structured discussions and courageous conversations that they will be able to incorporate into their classrooms. Using a Freirian view of naming the current world in which our students and teachers live in, we will be using stats, social trends, historical documents, literature, and pop culture to help cultivate a collective consciousness toward a more unified and equitable America.
